Lindenwood Nature Preserve

"When one tugs at a single thing in nature, he finds it attached to the rest of the world."
- John Muir

History

Lindenwood Nature Preserve became a park when the city leased the land from Lindenwood Cemetery in June 1974. When the 10-year lease expired, the Fort Wayne Park Foundation, with the help of the English, Bontner, Mitchell Foundation, purchased the land for the Board of Park Commissioners. Lindenwood Park became an official city park in 1987.

On March 17, 1994, the Board of Park Commissioners resolved to protect the park in perpetuity by applying to the Department of Natural Resources for Nature Preserve status. This designation was awarded by the State of Indiana and Lindenwood Park became Lindenwood Nature Preserve.

"Those who contemplate the beauty of the Earth find reserves of strength that will endure as long as life lasts."
- Rachel Carson

Come Inside!

Lindenwood Nature Preserve encompasses 110 acres of oak-hickory forest and a small, quiet two-acre pond. Visitors may explore the preserve on any of four hiking trails ranging in length from .25 miles to 1 mile. One trail features a level boardwalk and stone path, providing easy navigation and access to the pond for strollers and wheelchairs.

"It is inconceivable to me that an ethical relation to land can exist without love, respect, and admiration for land, and a higher regard for its value."

- Aldo Leopold
